

WHY STOP PUPPY FARMING?

The smell of a puppy farm is unforgettable, an overwhelming stench of urine and faeces. The simultaneous barking of hundreds of dogs creates a wall of sound that makes it hard to think, let alone converse.

Puppy farm dogs get no veterinary intervention when they need respite from their pain and suffering. They live in filth, sometimes without food or water. Their coats are often matted with faeces. Ear infections and ear mite infestations are common as is painful dental and gum disease. Many dogs go slowly insane. They spin in circles or pace back and forth in their cells, some never see daylight, and the outside world is a foreign place to them. Should any dogs be lucky enough to be rescued once outside in the open they still circle and pace as if they are still incarcerated. Never knowing kindness they shy away from human hands.

This is cruelty on a very large scale that takes place day after miserable day in the name of commerce. Puppy Farmers, Pet Shops, Advertisers and even the Government all take their blood money from this horrendous cruelty.

The Puppy buying public are misled at every turn thinking when they purchase a pup from a pet shop or over the internet that all is well and good at the source-when nothing could be further from the truth.

There are currently 130 operational Puppy Farms Victoria Wide.
