

CONSULATE OF THE REPUBLIC OF MAURITIUS

Department of Education, Science and Training

Dear Sir or Madam:

Reference in respect of Mr. Kevin BECK

I have known Mr. K. Beck for over 12 years during which time we were socially and professionally associated. This reference is in respect of both these perspective's.

During my involvement with the William Angliss Institute (WAI) I became of Mr. Beck who at the time had began developing the commercial arm of the by initiating activities with major clients both nationally and internationally. He, through his excellent negotiating skills, attracted a number of high calibre partnerships thus expanding the whole nature of the college.

In this expansion period he personally took entire responsibility to oversee a highly profitable department and by actively promoting the college's educational operations soon initiated its international program.

I found his ability to motivate a growing staff and he encouraged the college to engage greater imagination to develop its enhanced training and education program design. By so doing, many national businesses became clients of long standing.

Mr. Beck in an international context and using his good relations both with commercial and public enterprises he embarked on the developing an international profile for the WAI. Some of the successful partnerships included bilateral exchange projects with Johnson and Wales University of Rhode Island and the Lorenzo De Medicii Institute, Italy. Such was the value of these efforts that Mr. Beck' created an international degree that embraced educational institutes in Italy, Ireland, England, the James Cook University and colleges in South Australia.

In recent years Mr. Beck joined a Magnesium producing company as its international marketing manager. Mr. Beck brought his talents and skills to guide this company in firming relations with major organisations in the USA, Britain, Germany and Canada. He negotiated successful contractual arrangements with the Ben Gurion University and facilitated significant relations in Germany together with the University of New South Wales. Through the period I assisted Mr. Beck efforts is gaining access through my diplomatic connections.

Over the many years of my association with Mr. Beck I have unquestionably been most impressed with his professional attitude: his caring and sensitive management of his colleagues and his ability to generate the best results for his employers.

His sense of humour, his integrity and sense of fair play has equally played a major role in his professional life. I found him to be a highly intelligent person who has a knack of grasping the most complex of situations and converting such thus providing workable solutions.

To support this reference, I would be happy to provide any information required.

Yours sincerely

Richard Hammerton, Consul for Mauritius (Victoria) 24 August, 2003
